

CHARLESTON, S. C., September 8.—(The Charleston News and Courier.)—The prohibition convention met here yesterday, organized and adopted a platform. The document declares that the liquor traffic is a national evil, and that the government shall determine what shall be done to suppress it. The convention also adopted a resolution to support the national assembly at Fort Bowie, where they will be confined under a close guard until the government shall determine what shall be done to suppress it. ARAH ROBINSON.

THE MACON TRAGEDY TAKES A FRESH TURN.

Sarah Robinson Waives Examination—Charge of Felony Withdrawn—Trial Set for October Term—Detective Shackelford Is Bound Over—Two Hundred Dollar Bond.

MACON, September 8.—[Special.]—This morning Sarah Robinson was brought from the county jail to answer the charge of felony committed by the person of Mamie Little, who was brought before Judge Freeman, on motion of counsel, she passed the following order, which fully explains the case.

"The prosecution and solicitor general announce that they abandon the charge of felony, as charged, and asking that the case proceed under section 471, for keeping a low house, defendant recused herself, and is therefore considered, ordered and adjourned that the defendant, Sarah Robinson, be committed to the next term of the superior court, to be held in and for the said county of Bibb, on the 10th day of October, 1886. This September 8, 1886."

This settles, for the nonce, the last relic of the celebrated Moore-Little tragedy, and leaves to the grand jury and the superior court the job of ferretting out the true inwards of the case.

"Richard Himself Again."—[Special.]—Well, Richard is himself again, cried a familiar voice today, and your correspondent was confronted by the merry face and jolly old Colonel C. W. Hancock, the veteran editor of the American Republican.

"Glad to hear it, colonel. How about it?" "Well, sir, I have been arranging some business matters, and after a few months vacation, I am going to assume charge of my old paper. Look out for my salutary Wednesday."

"How old are you, colonel?"

"Sixty-five years of age, and thirty-three years in the newspaper business. I have been editor and proprietor of the old Republican for more than three decades, and I am glad to be able to say that I am now able to resume editorial charge of the paper."

"Long may she wave," but he was gone.

Detective Shackelford.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Detective Shackelford appeared before Judge Freeman, in justice court today, to answer the charge of perjury, on a warrant sworn out by L. Greenwood, whom he recently reported for selling liquor on Sunday. About thirty witnesses were examined, and one of them, an East Tennessee railroad man, swore that to his certain knowledge, Mr. Greenwood was asleep during the whole of that Sunday in question, and others swore variously, and the final outcome was that Judge Freeman bound him over in the sum of two hundred dollars to the October term of superior court. It is quite probable that the case will assume a startling character before it is done with. Chief Wiley went on Shackelford's bond.

Recorder's Court.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Today there were quite a number of cases up before the recorder.

One big, burly negro, named Dick Jones, was fined twenty dollars for being drunk. It was his fourth time before the judge, and he decided to try and sober Mr. Jones. He will go to the gang for some days.

Charlie Robinson, an ebony kid, was called up on a charge of fighting. Charlie pleaded guilty, but his conferees, a yellow child, arose in his three foot majesty and informed the judge that his witness had failed to appear. There was no particular charge against him, but he insisted so heartily that witnesses be summoned, that Judge Patterson decided that he must be guilty too, and had both of them locked up and the case continued.

An Italian Loan.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Tony Vannucci took him to Italy, his boy, Richard Shackelford, appeared before Judge Freeman, in justice court today, to answer the charge of perjury, on a warrant sworn out by L. Greenwood, whom he recently reported for selling liquor on Sunday. About thirty witnesses were examined, and one of them, an East Tennessee railroad man, swore that to his certain knowledge, Mr. Greenwood was asleep during the whole of that Sunday in question, and others swore variously, and the final outcome was that Judge Freeman bound him over in the sum of two hundred dollars to the October term of superior court. It is quite probable that the case will assume a startling character before it is done with. Chief Wiley went on Shackelford's bond.

Holton Farmers' Club.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—An annual assembly, Saturday at their club grounds, Holton, Ga., and discussed "corn and cotton gathering." Dr. Lee Holt, Dr. L. B. Clifton, R. A. Nisbet, W. G. Bass, R. E. Park, C. W. Howard, and the happy couple left immediately for their home in Kentucky.

At St. Joseph's Catholic church this morning at five o'clock, Mr. John O'Hara and Miss May Daly were united in marriage. Rev. Father Colbert, priest of St. Joseph, performed the ceremony. The parties belong to the best families, and they will reside in this city.

The Suwanee Route.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Colonel J. Lowe is advertising for bids for grading, treating and bridge specification for the construction of the Macon and Florida Air Line railroad. He wishes all bids in by October 1. After that time he expects to begin throwing dirt on the road, and he will run southward as fast as practicable, but its ultimate terminus is not yet located definitely. If the Covington and Macon route run this route or any other southward route, as they propose to do, they will call it the "Suwanee Route." The name will be quite appropriate, as it touches the Suwanee country at its most eligible point.

J. Greenwood Fined.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—J. Greenwood, a cigar dealer on Fourth street, stood up before his honor on a charge of selling cigars on Sunday. The charge was preferred by Mr. Greenwood's relatives, and quite a crowd assembled to witness the trial. Greenwood tried hard to clear himself, but was finally convicted and fined the usual rate, fifty dollars.

This appears to be the result of a family quarrel between Greenwood and his brother.

Truly, the No. 6, charged with the same offense.

City Court.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—City court was adjourned today on account of the slight indisposition of Judge Harris. It was only adjourned until tomorrow. There is little of interest in the city.

The Chief of Police Arrested.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Warrants were sworn out by Mrs. Mary E. Long, mother of Charlie Lewis, on a charge of false imprisonment today. Constable Henderson served the warrant on Chief Wiley, and he was released on his own recognizance. The chief feels that he is right, and goes ahead. Henry Walker, porter at the Stables hotel, fell in a fit of second street, near Harris tonight. He is still unconscious at the city hall.

Mike Wright's Flight.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Mike Wright did not do right toward his wife, and she had him arrested for whipping her. He was brought to trial before a justice of the peace today, but while the judge proceeded to write out the usual rites and ceremonies regarding other criminals, Wright slipped right off and toward the Ocmulgee today his flight. The bailiff failed to overtake him, and Mike is now at large. He is a slick one and will be hard to catch.

Cheating and Swindling.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Rev. Lewis Bently was arrested by E. H. McKee, the sheriff of Telfair county, and turned over to Mr. L. A. Hatcher, marshal of Dawson, who brought him to Macon today. He was locked up in jail today, and will be carried down to Dawson tomorrow. He is charged with cheating and swindling.

Made His Home.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Captain O. F. Adams has lately been elected supreme treasurer of the Golden Rule. He has now received a notification that his bond of $25,000 has been accepted by the American Surety company, of New York. It is quite a compliment to our worthy city treasurer.

Dots and Dashes.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—This Constitution office has been presented with a beautiful bronze thermometer, in the shape of an umbrella, and a beautiful volume of photographs of all the principal cities of the world. Mr. A. Vannucci is the generous donor.

The Central railroad is now running, flanked by strong barbed wire fence, at the street crossing on the Western and Atlantic road.

Personal Paragraphs.

MACON, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Judge T. J. Simmons is home again, looking as fresh as a school boy. He appears to have regained his usual good health.

Colonel C. W. Hancock, of the Sumter Republican, is in the city today.

Mr. E. W. Wilson, a charming young lady from St. Louis, is visiting Macon.

Charles Harris returned to Atlanta today, after a visit to his mother, Mrs. McKee, this city.

Mr. W. P. Mac and family, of America, have removed to Macon.

Mr. E. Stenheimer and family are settled in their new home in Macon.

Miss Nannie and Johnnie Davis, of Albany, are visiting Mrs. Thomas Williamson. They are just returned from New York.

COLUMBUS CHRONICLES.

Capture of a Forger—A Concert—The Sunday School Association.

COLUMBUS, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Policeman Michael has returned from Newton, Mississippi, where he went to arrest John F. Jenkins, a white man. He succeeded in capturing his man and brought him to this city and lodged him in jail. Jenkins is charged with having forged two or three orders on the county commission for small sums of money. He is a handsome fellow, about thirty years of age, and is a native of Mississippi. He is now being held in the city jail.

The singing of the hymns by Grant and Miss Hattie Turner was especially fine. The attendance was not as large as it should have been.

Mr. Hook Thomas has been appointed passenger agent of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad at this city in place of Mr. T. C. Sturges who goes to Atlanta.

The thirty anniversary celebration of the Columbus Athletic club will take place at Billie Reich tomorrow night.

The Muscogee County Sunday School association will have a mass meeting at the city hall, a few miles north of the city, on Saturday.

The collector of the Georgia Midland and Gulf railroad will begin tomorrow to collect the first installment of twenty-five per cent of the subscriptions to the stock of the company.

Savannah's Artesian Wells.

SAVANNAH, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—The committee on the water works authorized by the council tonight to sink ten inch artesian well at the site of the water works near the one which has been sunk and now giving a splendid flow of water. It is believed that if this ten inch well is successful that with four others to be immediately bored, a sufficient flow can be obtained to supply Savannah entirely with artesian water. Estimates place the cost of the well at $10,000, which is considered cheap, if this great benefit can be accomplished.

Longstreet on Canvas.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—James S. Taylor, general freight and passenger agent, has tendered his resignation, to take effect the fifteenth of September. He will accept a similar position with the Richmond and Danville. It is understood that his successor will be W. M. Davidson, now traffic manager and agent of the People's line at Jacksonville.

Aid for the Carolina Sufferers.

GRIFFIN, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—The different churches in Griffin took up a collection Sunday for the Carolina sufferers. The Methodist church collected $55, the Presbyterian $50 and the Baptist $105. There are several subscription lists out that have not yet reported. Griffin will do her part in this noble work.

The Fall Term Opens.

DAHLONEGA, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—The fall term of the North Georgia Agricultural college opened here Monday with prospects of a better school than usual. The term opens earlier than most of the colleges. There is now a full corps of teachers, and expect a larger attendance of pupils than ever before.

A Religious Revival.

PALMETTO, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—A revival of great interest has been going on at the Baptist church for several days. There have been several conversions to the church membership. The interest still continues, and it is not known when the meeting will close.

Palmetto's First Sale.

PALMETTO, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—Palmetto received her first bale of cotton yesterday. It was brought in by Mr. J. C. Sims and sold to Hatcher & Bro.

Deaths in Georgia.

Margaret Norton, one of the first settlers of Pickens county, died Monday, aged seventy years. Norma, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Edwards, of Toombs, died Monday, after a short illness.

William Walters, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Floyd county, died yesterday at his home in Waters district.

Mrs. Johnnie Conner, of Villa Rica, died yesterday about two o'clock, of pneumonia, after a short illness. She had been in bed and was taken very suddenly. She was about 60 years of age and was well known in the community.

AT THE TABERNACLE.

YESTERDAY AT THE CARTERSVILLE REVIVAL.

People Coming From a Distance—A Large Number of Ministers Present—A General Suspension of Business, During the Services—Special Train—General Notes.

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., September 8.—[Special.]—The revival going on at the "Sam Jones" great tabernacle gathers increasing force and power at every service with the most gratifying and visible results. The attendance is larger, and the audiences attentive and appreciative and serious. One evidence of the real interest in the revival was the cheerful unanimity with which the merchants and business men of Cartersville acquiesced in the call to close their places of business during the hours of the several services each day.

People from a distance are arriving each day, and the crowds are very large at each service, except the early morning service, and the attendance on that service is small only by comparison, ordinarily it would be considered a good sized audience.

Rev. Sam Jones, in conversation with some friends, said today that railroad officials everywhere had been kind to him personally and in their efforts to bring the people together at his meetings, but when it comes to downright evil railroad men, Captain Bob Anderson, superintendent of the State road, and Joe M. Brown, general passenger agent of the road, were of a different kind, but brotherly, and felt that the tabernacle meeting at Cartersville was due them a vote of thanks.

that burned like vitriol upon a rat's back. All the children of us said, was directed to these shirkings of the whiskey ring and of the disgrace that such men could unjustly bring upon the noble profession of journalism. You can imagine what sort of creature it must be that does not howl about the million and southern depravity as is contained in that extract."

NOT A GENERAL STRUTTER.

"Then neither of you said anything derogatory to the general character of the newspaper press."

"Not at all. I think, from my knowledge of journalism, that I can make the proper discrimination in a case of that kind."

"Here is an editorial comment suggesting that the press can get even with Sam Jones by ignoring him, and claiming that the newspapers made him what he is."

"Just so. But it is about time a chestnut ball be thrown upon that rocks. Sam Jones has a paralyzing answer to that kind of stuff, and no one has ever formulated a rejoinder to it."

"What is that?"

"He says that if the newspapers made him he has they would go to work at once and make another one or two like him, as he is overwhelmed with calls for service and could easily keep a few other Sam Joneses busy. But they haven't succeeded in making one yet to take place alongside of Sam."

"Has he so many calls?"
